

To my mom and dad, who has always believed in me

Abstract

In this thesis we will explore the role of latent variable models in NMT (neural machine translation). We will consider newly published models such as AUTR which writes to a canvas, essentially using an external memory in extension to a recurrent neural network.

Contents

List of Figures

List of Tables

Bibliography